SECTION 1

About Liraasa

Liraasa is a constructed language by Nicolas Bulgarides, built to be sung. Its vowels are pure, its consonants mostly soft, and almost every word ends on an open vowel a singer can hold. Its name is one of its own words: liraasa, the ascended form of lira (song), means "the song of the first stars."

Where it came from

Liraasa grew out of a sequence of earlier languages. Each kept what worked and remade the rest.

STAGE	WHAT IT WAS
Asterian	An earlier constructed language with its own glyph system.
Bubblesong	A language of gratitude: embedded text layers, colour-coded author names, and a strong musical shape.
Dreamsong	The hand-made evolution of Bubblesong, its lexicon built root by root, each with seven forms.
Stormsong	The working name of editions 0.6 and 0.7; older lexicon files still carry it.
Liraasa	The language's name from October 2026 on.

Editions

EDITION	WHAT CHANGED
0.6	The first complete grammar guide: 888 headwords, the seven-form system, the clause template, evidentials and certainty.
0.7	Seventeen harsh or colliding roots respelled; digits 7 and 9 restored; the first devotional codex of six songs.
0.8	Conversation and ordinary life: 81 new headwords, four discourse particles, twelve grammar rulings, the three registers and performance guidance.

What 0.8 set out to do

Edition 0.8 asked whether a language this good at devotion could also carry an argument, a joke, a sale and a sick-bed. Its guiding principle was that Liraasa should be able to say something ordinary beautifully, something beautiful simply, and something painful without becoming artificially sentimental. The aim was not to make Liraasa sound more like English, but to make it more fully itself.

The test was a short list of sentences that must all feel native:

ENGLISH	LIRAASA
I love you.	Maivo amora taivo.
The bread is burning.	Li bumre farufa!
You owe me money.	Taivo guraga maivo cono.
That's not what I meant.	Ola ka baba mebanena.
I don't forgive you.	Maivo ne merama taivo.
Please stay.	Fisa, lisrola.

Four of the six were already sayable in 0.7. Most of what was missing turned out to be written rules and a handful of practical words, not a new voice.

The literature so far

WORK	FORM	WORDS	STATUS IN 0.8
Six songs	four devotionals, a mythic duet, a cosmic rap	1,037	All valid; reproduced in this codex
Narvolore	short story about divorce and heartbreak	636	All valid
Bumrepago	one-act play for three voices	about 1,640	Valid except one line; an 0.8 revision is in progress

SECTION 2

How to use this codex

This codex has two halves. The first is the complete grammar of Liraasa as of edition 0.8: it integrates every 0.7 rule with the 0.8 additions, so no earlier guide is needed. The second is the codex of songs written in the language. The dictionary itself lives in the lexicon (lexicon_0_8_rc2.json, mirrored in the workbook).

It serves two readers: a person writing, praying or performing in Liraasa, and the future writing program. Rules a program should enforce are marked For the writing program.

Source of truth. The lexicon JSON is authoritative for vocabulary and glosses. The workbook and changelog are generated from it. Where this codex and the JSON disagree, the JSON wins.

LABEL	MEANING
Canon	Author-ratified. A program should enforce it.
Proposal	Usable but not yet signed off. A program should allow it and may flag it.
0.8	Added or clarified in this edition under rulings R1 to R12.

WRITTEN AS	MEANS	EXAMPLE
ROOT	a root or compound	lumi, mavolumi
-suffix	attaches to the end, no space	-san, -ri
prefix-	attaches to the front, usually hyphenated	ki-, revo-
particle	a separate small word	po, ne, ki
[...]	an optional slot	SUBJECT [po] VERB

What changed in 0.8

No 0.7 root was respelled, no word was deleted, and only two 0.7 glosses changed: two "unused" slots were given their predictable meanings. Everything else is addition or clarification.

AREA	CHANGE
Conversation	Four discourse particles: hema (well…), nido (I mean), yori (anyway), zoke (irony).
Grammar	Demonstratives as pronouns; ne before noun phrases; written rules for ellipsis and interruption; ki before a quotation; si as "whether"; sige always marks tense; optional frame tense; nominalization with sidu and fime; a fuller noun-phrase order; similes with gase.
Vocabulary	81 headwords for commerce, kitchen and labor, health, social life and time, built on 16 new roots; 6 new time words; 2 activated slots.
Style	The three registers, and performance guidance for speech, argument and song.
Data	15 defects in the inherited example sheets fixed and logged; rhyme families recomputed; field keys renamed from Stormsong to Liraasa.

The twelve rulings

#	RULING
R1	The JSON is the single source of truth; the workbook is generated. The language is named Liraasa.
R2	An "unused" form may receive a gloss only when its meaning is predictable, the author approves it, and the change is logged.
R3	The 40-root Root Review queue is frozen for 0.8. No canonical root is respelled.
R4	Frame tense is adopted as an optional convention.
R5	li may be dropped in everyday speech when the referent is obvious; never when ambiguous.
R6	sige (since) clauses never inherit tense.
R7	deyaapo stays as a fossil; the retired apo is not used in new words.
R8	The double-a verbs amorliraa, amorrinbaa and amorvulraa are correct.
R9	A certainty marker, or zoke, comes before ki.
R10	Registers are defined in the grammar; the sacred register is made by ascended forms, not a separate word list.
R11	New vocabulary is sized by genuine gaps, not by a target number.
R12	The diminutive -ti may attach to personal names: Dorinti, little Dorin.

SECTION 4

Liraasa at a glance

Ten ideas carry almost the whole language.

1. English-like word order. Subject, verb, object: Maivo amora taivo. is "I love you." Questions keep the order and add ki at the end.
2. Words never conjugate. lirala is sing, sang and will sing. Particles before the verb carry tense, negation, mood, aspect and evidence.
3. Every root has seven forms: noun, sacred noun, opposite, verb, adjective, negative adjective, sacred adjective. From lumi: lumi, lumiasa, lumina, lumila, lumisan, luminasan, lumiasasan.
4. The first letter picks the verb ending. Most roots copy their first consonant and add -a (lira → lirala). Roots starting with n or s take -nia or -sia (sora → sorasia).
5. Suffixes stack in a fixed order: meaning, then size, then number. lumi + ti + ri = lumitiri, little lights.
6. Compounds put the head last. nimu (home) + vorba (longing) = nimuvorba, homesickness. A compound then behaves like a root.
7. Particles before the verb follow one order: tense, negation, mood, aspect, evidence. Maivo po ne povi lirala. I could not sing.
8. Attitude goes at the very end. Certainty (seye, poye) or irony (zoke), then ki for a question.
9. Conversation has its own small words: hema (well…), nido (I mean), yori (anyway), zoke (yeah, sure).
10. Three registers, one grammar. Everyday, poetic and sacred Liraasa share every rule; the sacred register is made mainly by the ascended forms.

One sentence, fully unpacked

Maivo po roni yehu vimova li veluri seye. I was watching the stars (I saw it myself), and I am certain of it.

SLOT	WORD	JOB
Subject	Maivo	I
Tense	po	past
Aspect	roni	in progress
Evidential	yehu	seen with my own eyes
Verb	vimova	see, watch
Object	li veluri	the stars
Certainty	seye	certainly

Every particle is optional. Drop them all and Maivo vimova li veluri. still means "I see the stars."

SECTION 5

Sound and spelling

Liraasa is built to be sung: spelling is phonetic, vowels are pure, and almost every word ends on an open vowel a singer can hold.

Vowels. Five vowels, a e i o u, each with one pure sound, roughly as in Spanish or Italian. Neighbouring vowels are separate syllables in careful speech: soraasa is so-ra-a-sa, opioa is o-pi-o-a. Singers and fast speakers may slur them; the spelling never contracts them.

Consonants. The core set is l m n r s v y. Around it sit b d p t g h z k c f j, rarer and more rhythmic. sh and ch occur only in a few colour and number words (shada, ocha).

FEATURE	RULE	EXAMPLES	STATUS
Word-initial clusters	none new; only kr- and tr- are grandfathered	krono, trana	Canon
Medial clusters	allowed between vowels	balbu, lamsa, maska	Canon
Word endings	roots end in a vowel; amor and apok are protected exceptions	lira, lumi / amor	Canon
New roots	two syllables, consonant start, vowel finish	gura, dapa, mudu, lemvo	Canon
Proximity	a new root may not be within one letter of any existing word	kema rejected: one letter from hema	0.8
Syllable breaks	a medial cluster splits between its consonants	bal-bu, mas-ka, lem-vo	Canon
Stress	penultimate syllable	LI-ra, lu-mi-A-sa, da-pa-DO-nu	Canon (speech)

Canon spellings are never changed by rule. Respelling happens only by explicit author decision. In 0.8 the Root Review queue is frozen (ruling R3).

Not every word should be soft. Edition 0.7 softened fourteen harsh roots. Edition 0.8 deliberately stops that trend: some meanings want weight. gura (debt) keeps its hard g, kulpa (blame) its k and p, zoke (irony) its buzz and stop. The contrast between flowing vowel runs and sharper consonants is a resource for drama, not a defect.

For the writing program: a proposed root must be lowercase a to z, start with a consonant, have no initial cluster except kr or tr, end in a vowel, have exactly two syllables, and sit at least two edits from every root, function word, particle, pronoun, number, correlative and time word. Eleven declared canon pairs are exempt, among them mavo/maivo and lira/zira.

SECTION 6

The anatomy of a word

Every content word is assembled from a few parts in a fixed order. Learn the parts and the order, and you can read words you have never seen.

Three kinds of building block

BLOCK	WHAT IT IS	TAKES THE SEVEN FORMS?	COUNT IN 0.8
Primal root	a basic meaning: light, song, debt	yes	421
Compound	two roots fused, modifier first, head last	yes, as a whole word	548
Function word	particles, prepositions, conjunctions, articles	never	123, plus 4 discourse particles and 36 correlatives

Function words never take endings. The one regular exception is plural -ri on pronouns and demonstratives: maivori, eliri.

The seven forms

#	FORM	BUILD	FROM LUMI	FROM LIRA	FROM MUDU (0.8)
1	Primal root	ROOT	lumi, light	lira, song	mudu, sickness
2	Ascended root	ROOT + asa	lumiasa, divine light	liraasa, song of the first stars	(unused)
3	Negated root	ROOT + na	lumina, absence of light	lirana, silence	muduna, health
4	Verb	see the verb rule	lumila, to shine	lirala, to sing	muduma, to be sick
5	Negative adjective	ROOT + nasan	luminasan, lightless	liranasan, unsung	mudunasan, healthy
6	Adjective	ROOT + san	lumisan, bright	lirasan, lyrical	mudusan, sick
7	Ascended adjective	ROOT + asasan	lumiasasan, holy	liraasasan, celestially sung	(unused)

- Ascended (-asa, -asasan) lifts a concept into the sacred or mythic. It is a change in kind, not degree: liraasa is the song of the first stars, not a loud song. For "very" use ruli; for "most" use mosa.
- Negated (-na, -nasan) names the absence or opposite, and can be a whole new meaning: the absence of sickness is health. It never replaces the sentence negator ne.
- Adjective (-san) goes before the noun (vanisan lira) or after a linking word (Li lira ka vanisan.). Adjectives never agree with plurals.

Unused slots. About 60% of all forms are glossed "unused." They are grammatical words without a lexicalized meaning; a poet may use one in its literal sense (vaniasa, "ascended beauty") and a comedian may coin with them (bumreasasan, "divinely bready"). Under ruling R2, an unused slot gains an official gloss only when its meaning is predictable, the author approves it, and the change is logged. Two were activated in 0.8: yebana (disagreement) and mebanena (misunderstanding).

The verb rule

Work down the list; stop at the first match. Only the first letter of the whole word counts.

STEP	IF THE WORD...	ADD	EXAMPLES
1	is the protected root opi	-oa	opi → opioa, to hope
2	starts with n	-nia	nela → nelania, nedudonu → nedudonunia
3	starts with s	-sia	sora → sorasia, salta → saltasia
4	starts with a vowel	-a	amor → amora, apok → apoka
5	starts with any other consonant	that consonant + a	lira → lirala, gura → guraga, dapadonu → dapadonuda

Steps 2 and 3 prevent collisions: under step 5, nela would give nelana, which is already the negated root. A compound takes its verb class from its modifier: vorba gives vorbava, but nimuvorba gives nimuvorbania. The three vowel-initial compounds ending in -a keep a double a (amorliraa); each a is its own syllable (ruling R8).

Extra suffixes and their order

ROOT, then one form or derivation, then -ti, then -ri.

SUFFIX	MEANING	ATTACHES TO	EXAMPLE
-ti	little, softened	any lexical form, before -ri; also personal names	nelati, little person; Dorinti
-ri	plural	far right of a noun or pronoun	sorari, friends; bitiri, tools
-yo	one who does it	the root, not the verb	lirayo, singer; helnayo, healer; maskayo, actor
-vu	big, grand	the root	liravu, grand song
-pago	place of the activity	the root, except mavo	bumrepago, bakery; helnapago, clinic

Size and sacredness are separate axes: -ti makes small, -vu makes big, -asa makes holy. mavopago exists only as the fixed word for "society."

Compounds

A compound is MODIFIER + HEAD, written together with no change to either: narvo (darkness) + lore (heart) = narvolore, heartbreak. The head says what kind of thing it is: farudomlu (fire + house) is a kind of house, an oven; dapadonu (price + giving) is a kind of giving, a sale.

Many older compounds are lexicalized metaphors (mavolumi, mind + light, means soul), and the lexicon's gloss always wins over a literal reading. Edition 0.8 compounds aim to be transparent instead: namrenuravu (head + ache), senobalbu (word + break, interruption). Several 0.8 roots head whole families: kova (vessel) gives bowl, pot, bucket and basket; biti (tool) gives knife, spoon and broom.

Prefixes and hyphenated words

PREFIX	USE	EXAMPLE	STATUS
ki-	question word	ki-pago, where	Canon
eli- ola- toda- nuna- somi-	this, that, every, no, some + concept	eli-pago here, nuna-krono never	Canon
va- du- mi- so- taro- yave- revo- lu- nu-	direction on motion verbs, curated list only	revo-pagopa, return	Proposal
number hyphens	read a number in chunks	dozira-cuara, twenty-four	Canon
-ne on numbers	ordinal	una-ne, first	Proposal

Reading words apart

Read from the right edge inward: peel off plural, then diminutive, then the form ending, and look up what remains. manlibumreri = manlibumre + ri, doughs. dapadonuyo = dapadonu + yo, seller. mudunasan = mudu + nasan, healthy.

For the writing program: parse lexicon-first, never by blind suffix stripping. Many roots end in letters that look like suffixes (navu, sevu, trana, and pago itself). Try the longest known word first, then the closed list of endings, then -ti, then -ri.

SECTION 7

Nouns, pronouns and the noun phrase

A noun phrase reads like English: small words first, then description, then the noun, then anything that tells you more about it. In 0.8 the opening slot is split into a quantifier and a definiteness word.

[QUANTIFIER] [li | eli | ola | OWNER de] [NUMBER] [ADJECTIVE...] NOUN[-ti][-ri] [de ...] [raho CLAUSE]

Li vanisan lirari raho taivo lirala — the beautiful songs that you sing.

WORDS	MEANING	NOTES
li	the	known or specific; may be dropped in verse, and in everyday speech when the referent is obvious
baba	a, an	new singular reference; dropped in verse only
eli / eliri	this / these	near the speaker
ola / olari	that / those	away from the speaker
toda · somi · nuna	all, every · some · no	also build correlatives
muya · poka · rada	many · few · each	rada takes a singular noun and no article numbers	one, two...	dossa lirari, two songs; li dossa veluri, the two stars

PATTERN	MEANING	EXAMPLE
toda N	every N, in general	Toda bumre keleka. Every bread rises.
toda li N	all of the specific N	Toda li bumre po farufa. All the bread burned.
toda OWNER de N	all of someone's N	Maivo po donuda toda maivo de conohelvi. I handed over all my savings.

Plural and diminutive. Add -ri at the right edge: sora → sorari. After a number above one, -ri may be dropped, but keeping it is the default. A diminutive comes first: nelatiri, little people.

Adjectives are -san forms. With li and no noun, an adjective means "the one who is X": li amorsan the beloved, li lumiasasan the Holy One. The devotionals use this for divine titles: li meloasasan, li lunoasasan.

Possession. Owner, then de, then the thing owned: taivo de lira, your song. Chains read left to right: maivo de sora de lira, my friend's song. de is never dropped.

Pronouns

PERSON	SINGULAR	PLURAL	POSSESSIVE	REFLEXIVE
1st	maivo	maivori	maivo de ...	maivo sela
2nd	taivo	taivori	taivo de ...	taivo sela
3rd, person	saivo	saivori	saivo de ...	saivo sela
3rd, thing	ito	itori	ito de ...	ito sela

Pronouns do not change between subject and object. The language is gender-neutral: saivo covers he, she and singular they. maivo is the only first-person form.

Demonstratives as pronouns

eli and ola stand alone as pronouns for things, situations and what is being said.

MEANING	FORM	EXAMPLE
this, that (thing, situation)	eli, ola	Maivo vurlova eli, ne ola. I want this, not that.
these, those	eliri, olari	Eliri ka maivo de bumreri. These are my loaves.
what was just said	ola	Ola ka vera. That's true.
what is about to be said	eli	Lenila eli: li bumre farufa! Listen to this: the bread is burning!
this or that person	eli-nela, ola-nela, or saivo	Eli-nela ka maivo de famli. This person is my sibling.
introducing someone	Eli ka + name	Eli ka Kipo. This is Kipo.

Bare eli and ola refer to people only in introductions; otherwise they would treat a person as a thing.

Prepositions

LIRAASA	ENGLISH	LIRAASA	ENGLISH

su	on, upon	hupi	above

SECTION 8

The sentence

The clause template

Every slot except SUBJECT and VERB is optional; when several appear, they keep this order.

#	SLOT	WORDS
1	Time word	deyafutu, nullopressa, eli-krono
2	Subject	maivo, li nela
3	Tense	po · futu · pressa
4	Negation	ne (moves with its meaning)
5	Modal	povi · nosi · musi · suvi · viki · kopi
6	Aspect	roni · tefa · sahi, then bodu · reve · loki
7	Evidential	yehu · gesu · bisu · vuda · buyu
8	Verb	lirala
9	Object	li lira
10	Phrases and manner	en li nimu, la molusan
11	Reciprocal	fuyi
12	Attitude	seye · mufe · poye · pifu, or irony zoke
13	Question	ki

ne goes immediately before what it negates. Maivo ne povi lirala. is "I cannot sing"; Maivo povi ne lirala. is "I am able not to sing."

Being, becoming and existing

WORD	MEANING	EXAMPLE
ke	is, right now (state, location)	Maivo ke ruli lemvosan. I'm very tired.
ka	is, by nature	Li sora ka benasan. The friend is good.
kapoki	used to be, no longer	Li bumrepago kapoki li famadonu de maivori. The bakery used to be our inheritance.
loya	becomes	Li nullo po loya sovesan. The night became peaceful.
miyo	there is, there are	Miyo baba yolbenuravu en maivo de reku. There's a sharp pain in my chest.

Tense combines with these: po ke was (then), po ka was (by nature), futu ke, futu ka.

Tense

PARTICLE	MEANING	EXAMPLE
(none)	present	Maivo lirala. I sing.
pressa	emphatic present	Maivo pressa lirala. I sing now.
po	past	Maivo po lirala. I sang.
futu	future	Maivo futu lirala. I will sing.

futu states what will happen; kopi states hope or intent.

Frame tense

In past narration, po can otherwise appear every seventh word. Under ruling R4, a standalone tense particle opening a paragraph or a turn sets a frame: following main clauses without their own tense particle take the frame tense, until another tense particle, pressa, or the end of the paragraph. It is optional.

Po — Li ruhe ruhera transa toda li nullo. Maivo semnesia ligo li tabu. Ilora talbeta ligo li dorbi. The storm raged all night. I sat by the table. Ilora stood by the door.

Only a bare Po or Futu sets a frame; time words such as deyaapo do not. No earlier text begins with a bare tense particle, so frame tense changes the meaning of nothing already written. It is meant for prose and screenplays; songs and dialogue rarely need it.

Aspect and time adverbs

PARTICLE	MEANING	EXAMPLE
roni	in progress	Maivo roni lirala. I am singing.
tefa	completed	Maivo po tefa lirala. I had finished singing.
sahi	habitual	Velina sahi daparalkada. Velina always haggles.
bodu	already	Maivo bodu lirala. I have already sung.
reve	again	Li domlucono po keleka reve. The rent went up again.
loki	still	Maivo loki lirala. I am still singing.

Mood, commands and politeness

PARTICLE OR PATTERN	MEANING	EXAMPLE
povi	can	Maivo ne povi dapatovoda ito. I can't afford it.
nosi	may, might	Saivo nosi lirala. They might sing.
musi	must	Maivo musi pagopa. I must go.
suvi	should	Taivo suvi somusia. You should rest.
viki	would	Maivo viki lirala. I would sing.
kopi	hope or intend to	Maivo kopi lirala. I hope to sing.
bare verb	command	Kavbika li mirukova! Carry the bucket!
ne + verb	prohibition	Ne senobalbusia maivo! Don't interrupt me!
yava + verb	let us	Yava namilornunia! Let's eat!
fisa	please	Fisa, lisrola. Please stay.

Evidence and certainty

EVIDENTIAL	SOURCE	SUNG COLOUR
yehu	seen	clear
gesu	heard	echo
bisu	felt inwardly	warm
vuda	dreamed	airy
buyu	reported	distant

ATTITUDE	MEANING	CADENCE
seye	certainly	falls and resolves
mufe	probably	not specified
pifu	I hope so	held, leaning up
zoke	irony (0.8)	flat, clipped

Use at most one evidential per clause, right before the verb. The attitude marker sits at the very end, before ki: Taivo lirala poye ki? zoke takes the attitude slot, so it never combines with a certainty marker. The devotionals' signature line, Maivo bisu amora taivo seye, uses both an evidential and a certainty marker: "I love you, as I feel within, certainly."

Voice, valency and verb chains

CONSTRUCTION	PATTERN	EXAMPLE
Passive	PATIENT [TENSE] gome VERB [gagu AGENT]	Li lira po gome lirala gagu taivo. The song was sung by you.
Causative	CAUSER vaku ACTOR VERB	Taivo vaku maivo momvilavima. You make me find joy again.
Reciprocal	PLURAL SUBJECT VERB fuyi	Maivori amora fuyi. We love each other.
Reflexive	PRONOUN sela	Maivo vimova maivo sela. I see myself.
Verb chain	VERB sidu VERB2	Maivo vurlova sidu lirala. I want to sing.
Weather	VERB alone	Renlira. It rains.

Nominalization

Every root's first form is already a noun of action or thing (juba gift, donu handing-over, tali work). For a whole verb phrase, use sidu; for a whole clause, use fime.

NEED	CONSTRUCTION	EXAMPLE
Noun of an action	the root	Ne juba. Donu. Not a gift. A handing-over.
Verb phrase as a noun	sidu + verb phrase	Sidu lisrola ka livna de taivo. To stay is your choice.
Clause as a noun	fime + clause	Fime taivo po relnura ka baba juba. That you came back is a gift.

SECTION 9

Questions, negation and linking clauses

Questions

Say the statement and add ki: Taivo lirala ki? Do you sing? When you also address someone, ki closes the clause and the name follows: Taivo viki pagopa ligo maivo ki, maivo de amor?

QUESTION	LIRAASA	EXAMPLE
what	ki-coda	Ki-coda ka li cemopaturi? What are the ingredients?
which	ki-eli + noun	Ki-eli lira taivo amora? Which song do you love?
who, whose	ki-nela, ki-nela de	Ki-nela po hifaha li bumre? Who stole the bread?
where	ki-pago	Ki-pago ka li tisebiti? Where is the knife?
when	ki-krono	Ki-krono maivo lirala? When do I sing?
why	ki-kasa	Ki-kasa taivo somusia? Why are you sleeping?
how	ki-modo	Ki-modo taivo lirala? How do you sing?
how many	ki-muya	ki-muya lirari? how many songs?

zabo is yes and kepi is no. ki-saivo (who) is historical only. Echo questions repeat the surprising word with ki: Maivo po donuda li bumrepago. — Donuda ki? I handed over the bakery. Handed over?

Quotation. ki closes its clause. Before a long direct quotation it may close the main clause first; the older order stays valid. Taivo vurlova ki, fime maivo senosia: "Pagopa, lirala!" Do you want me to say "Go, sing!"?

Embedded questions. An embedded wh-question keeps its question word in place, with no final ki: Maivo ne sabesia ki-pago taivo futu pagopa. I don't know where you'll go. An embedded yes/no question uses si, which in 0.8 also means "whether": Maivo masuma si taivo futu relnura. I'm asking whether you'll come back.

Negation

ne always goes immediately before what it negates.

TARGET	PATTERN	EXAMPLE
verb	SUBJ [TENSE] ne [MODAL] VERB	Maivo po ne lirala. I didn't sing.
copula	SUBJ ne ka/ke ...	Li bumre ne ka sumasan. The bread isn't warm.
noun phrase, fragment	ne NP	Ne eli. Ola. Not this one. That one.
time or place	ne CORRELATIVE	Ne eli-krono. Not now.
command	ne VERB	Ne pagopa! Don't go!
contrast	ne X, nara Y	Li lira ka ne vanisan, nara molusan. The song isn't beautiful but gentle.

Two kinds of "not." ne negates a statement; -na names an absence or opposite inside a word. Li lira ne ka vanisan denies beauty; Li lira ka vaninasan says the song is plain.

ORDINARY NEGATION	CORRECTIVE NEGATION
Dorin ne bumreba. Dorin doesn't bake.	Ne Dorin bumreba, nara Kipo. It isn't Dorin who bakes, it's Kipo.
Maivo po ne senosia "juba". I didn't say "gift."	Maivo po senosia ne "juba", nara "donu". I said not "gift" but "handing-over."

Double negatives cancel. Maivo sabesia nuna-coda is "I know nothing"; Maivo ne sabesia nuna-coda is "it isn't true that I know nothing." Avoid it except for effect. For an emphatic "never," use nuna-krono.

Coordination, conditions and reasons

WORD	MEANING	EXAMPLE
ata	and	lira ata melo
oro	or	miru oro nami
nara	but	Maivo lirala nara saivo ne lirala.
krotiata	then, next	Krotiata maivo lirala.
si	if (real)	Si taivo lirala, maivo futu meloma.
si ... viki	if (hypothetical)	Si maivo masuma taivo, taivo viki relsira ki?
si po ... viki po	if (past counterfactual)	Si maivo po masuma, taivo viki po relsira.
sina	unless	Sina saivo pagopa, maivo ne lirala.
kasa	because	Maivo somusia kasa maivo ke lemvosan.
kopisa	so that	Maivo talita kopisa maivo benaba.
nevi	although	Nevi saivo ke silisan, ...

raho is the relative "who, which, that" and follows its noun: Li nela raho maivo amora. fime is the content "that" after know, say and dream: Maivo sabesia fime taivo lirala.

Time clauses and tense

kube	when (not a question)	Kube taivo venreva, maivo lirala.
nayo	while	Nayo maivo lirala, taivo rilura.
tuni	until	Maivo sulnosia tuni taivo venreva.
sige	since (always marks its tense)	Sige maivo po venreva, taivo lirala.
kureli	as soon as	Kureli taivo venreva, maivo lirala.

kroti and krotiapo are prepositions, not conjunctions: kroti li merno, before the morning.

Clauses introduced by fime, raho, kube, nayo, kasa, kopisa and tuni borrow the main clause's tense unless they mark their own. A sige clause always marks its tense (ruling R6): Velina senosia eli-coda rada merno, sige maivo po ke linuti. Velina has said this every morning since I was a child.

RELATION TO THE MAIN CLAUSE	MARKER	EXAMPLE
earlier	tefa	Kube taivo po tefa sapusia, maivo po pagopa. When you had eaten, I left.
same time	nayo, roni	Nayo maivo po bumreba, Kipo po resora.
later (future-in-past)	futu	Maivo po sabesia fime saivo futu relnura. I knew they would come back.
habitual	sahi	Kube pilo sahi bumreba, maivo sahi somusia su li bumre.

SECTION 10

Conversation

Liraasa's particles all come before the verb, so a speaker can stop after any of them and the listener still knows the tense, negation and mood. That makes interruption, hesitation and quick exchanges unusually easy to write.

Four discourse particles

PARTICLE	JOB	POSITIONS	ALONE?	REGISTER
hema	hesitation; holding the floor (well..., um)	clause-initial; between phrases	yes	everyday, poetic nido	self-repair (I mean, rather); what came before is withdrawn	after the withdrawn word, before its replacement	no	everyday, poetic
yori	back to the topic (anyway)	clause-initial	yes, dismissively	everyday
zoke	irony (yeah, sure); the speaker doesn't endorse the statement	the attitude slot, before ki	yes	everyday only

- Hema... maivo ne sabesia. Well... I don't know.
- Maivo vurlova, hema, baba cupa de miru. I'd like, um, a cup of water.
- Maivo amora taivo, nido, maivo devoda taivo. I love you. No: I pledge myself to you.
- Yori, maivo de seno: li bumrepago nedunia cono. As I was saying: the bakery needs coins.
- Dorin milobema toda-krono, zoke. Dorin smiles all the time. (Sure he does.)
- Taivo po bumreba eli, zoke ki? You baked this, did you?

nido corrects your own wording; ne X, nara Y corrects a claim, usually someone else's. zoke never combines with seye, mufe, poye or pifu.

Everything else uses existing words

FUNCTION	LIRAASA	FUNCTION	LIRAASA
Wait.	Sulnosia!	Really?	Vera ki?
So?	Ata?	Of course.	Zabo, seye.
You know?	..., taivo sabesia ki?	I suppose.	clause + mufe
Never mind.	Nuna-coda.	Perhaps, but...	Poye, nara...
That's not what I said.	Maivo po ne senosia ola-coda.	That's enough!	Neduna!
That's not what I meant.	Ola ka baba mebanena.	What about...?	Ata X ki?
Actually...	La vera, ...	Not exactly.	Ne toda-modo.
On the other hand...	Lotero silda, ...	Fine, then.	Zabo, ola-modo.

Ellipsis and interruption

PATTERN	RULE	EXAMPLE
Interruption	Speech may break off after any word; mark it with a dash.	Pilo po ne povi talita. Ata maivo po ne povi—
Co-completion	The listener may finish the clause.	Maivo po ne povi— — Talita. Maivo sabesia.
Omitted subject	A repeated subject may drop in coordinated clauses and in answers. Keep the tense.	Maivo po bumreba ata po sapusia.
Omitted predicate	After a contrasting subject, leave ne or zabo.	Kipo resora. Dorin, ne. Kipo laughs. Dorin doesn't.
Short answer	Zabo or Kepi; tense + verb; or a full echo.	Taivo po sapusia ki? — Po sapusia.
Repetition	Doubling or tripling intensifies or shows continuation.	Li nelari valmiva, valmiva, valmiva.

Not acceptable: dropping the verb while keeping its object with no clause to recover it; dropping de in possession; moving -ri off the end of the noun phrase; dropping a subject that has changed; a bare tense particle as a sentence, except as a frame marker.

SECTION 11

Degree, comparison and the correlative grid

Ordinary degree uses small particles; the ascended forms are reserved for something beyond degree.

WANT TO SAY	PATTERN	EXAMPLE
very X	ruli ADJ	ruli vanisan, very beautiful
more X than Y	kasi ADJ tamo Y	Velina ka kasi solosan tamo li bumre de deyaapo.
less X than Y	menu ADJ tamo Y	menu megesan tamo pilo de bumre
as X as Y	gase ADJ gase Y	gase sumasan gase li faru, as warm as the fire like Y (simile, 0.8)	gase Y	Taivo lirala gase pilo. You sing like father.
most, least	mosa ADJ, lusu ADJ	mosa vanisan, most beautiful
only	doli + NOUN	doli taivo, only you
divinely X	ROOT + asasan	Li lira ka vaniasasan. The song is sublimely beautiful.

mosa vanisan (most beautiful of a set) and vaniasasan (beauty raised into the sacred) are not synonyms.

Sameness and difference. Ola ka sambasan. That's the same. X ka sambasan ko Y, X is the same as Y. X ka sambanasan da Y, X is different from Y. The idiom Ola ka una coda (that's one thing) is also correct. Lotero silda, ... means "on the other hand."

Adverbs. There is no adverb suffix. Put la before an adjective: Maivo lirala la molusan. I sing gently.

The correlative grid

Thirty-six words built from six determiners and six concepts. They usually open the clause: Eli-krono maivo lirala. Now I sing.

	CODA, THING	NELA, PERSON	PAGO, PLACE	KRONO, TIME	MODO, MANNER	KASA, REASON
ki question	ki-coda what	ki-nela who	ki-pago where	ki-krono when	ki-modo how	ki-kasa why
eli this	eli-coda this thing	eli-nela this person	eli-pago here	eli-krono now	eli-modo this way	eli-kasa for this reason
ola that	ola-coda that thing	ola-nela that person	ola-pago there	ola-krono then	ola-modo that way	ola-kasa for that reason
toda every	toda-coda everything	toda-nela everyone	toda-pago everywhere	toda-krono always	toda-modo every way	toda-kasa every reason
nuna no	nuna-coda nothing	nuna-nela no one	nuna-pago nowhere	nuna-krono never	nuna-modo no way	nuna-kasa no reason
somi some	somi-coda something	somi-nela someone	somi-pago somewhere	somi-krono sometime	somi-modo somehow	somi-kasa some reason

For the writing program: the grid is fully regular, DETERMINER + "-" + CONCEPT, and can be generated rather than stored.

SECTION 12

Numbers, time and colour

Numbers

VALUE	DIGIT	× 10	× 100
0	zira
1	una	unzira	centa
2	dossa	dozira	dossacenta
3	tressa	trezira	tressacenta
4	cuara	cuazira	cuaracenta
5	penta	penzira	pentacenta
6	sesa	sesazira	sesacenta
7	seta	setazira	setacenta
8	ocha	ochazira	ochacenta
9	niva	nivazira	nivacenta

Larger scales are mililumi (1,000) and megalumi (1,000,000). Join groups with hyphens, largest first, skipping empty groups: dozira-una 21, unzira-dossa 12, dossacenta-unzira-penta 215, dossa-mililumi-una 2,001, mililumi-penta 1,005. Count things with NUMBER + NOUN(-ri): dozira-cuara lirari, 24 songs. Ordinals (una-ne, first) and fractions (tressa de cuara, ¾) are still proposals. Negative numbers and decimals are undefined.

Time words

UNIT	WORD	RELATIVE	WORD
second	seca	today	deyapressa
minute	minota	yesterday	deyaapo
hour	lornu	tomorrow	deyafutu
day	deya	soon	fututi
week	deyafama	someday	futupago
month	monta	morning	merno
year	montafama	evening	vesno
calendar	codamontafama	night	nullo
moment	mambi	anniversary	kronopago

New in 0.8, on the pattern of deyapressa and deyafutu:

	THIS … (+ PRESSA)	TOMORROW … (+ FUTU)
morning	mernopressa	mernofutu
evening	vesnopressa	vesnofutu
night	nullopressa, tonight	nullofutu

The past uses phrases, so the retired apo doesn't spread: vesno de deyaapo (yesterday evening), nullo de deyaapo (last night).

MEANING	LIRAASA
earlier	Kroti ola, … (before that)
later	Krotiapo, …
meanwhile	Nayo ola, … (while that)
recently	Kroti poka deyari, … (a few days ago)
eventually	Futupago, …
immediately	Eli-krono, la velbisan! (now, swiftly)
during	en + time noun: en li nullo
deadline, schedule, appointment	kronovabale, kronoleto, lornupomli

Time words usually open the clause: Mernopressa, maivo po bumreba. This morning, I baked.

Colour

Nine base hues take four modifiers after the hue: narvo (dark), bio (vivid), juba (gem) and lumi (light). Colours go before the noun like adjectives.

HUE	BASE	+ NARVO	+ BIO	+ JUBA	+ LUMI
red	rubi	rubinarvo	rubibio	rubijuba	rubilumi, pink
orange	ojo	ojonarvo	ojobio	ojojuba	ojolumi
yellow	aurumi	auruminarvo	aurumibio	aurumijuba, gold	aurumilumi
blue	azuri	azurinarvo	azuribio	azurijuba	azurilumi
green	verde	verdenarvo	verdebio	verdejuba	verdelumi
violet	vio	vionarvo	viobio	viojuba	violumi
black	shada	shadanarvo	shadabio	shadajuba	shadalumi, grey
white	vana	vananarvo	vanabio	vanajuba, silver	vanalumi
brown	erta	ertanarvo	ertabio	ertajuba	ertalumi

SECTION 13

Practical vocabulary

Edition 0.8 added 81 headwords for ordinary life, built on 16 new roots, and many more concepts turned out to be in 0.7 already. This chapter is a map; the workbook's "New in 0.8" sheet lists every form and gloss. New roots are in bold.

Commerce and obligation

CONCEPT	WORD	CONCEPT	WORD
debt; to owe	gura, guraga	price; to cost	dapa, dapada
theft; to steal	hifa, hifaha	loan; to lend	rima, rimara
profit; to gain	pari, paripa	sale; to sell	dapadonu, dapadonuda
purchase; to buy	dapatovo, dapatovoda	payment; to pay	conodonu, conodonuca

Derived words: dapadonuyo seller, dapatovoyo customer, dapadonupago shop, taradapago market, hifayo thief, rimayo lender, gurayo debtor, lanvetovoyo legal owner.

Three distinctions carry drama. lanvetovo (owned by law), tovo (possessed) and nimu (belonging, home): Taivo ka li lanvetovoyo, nara eli-pago ka maivo de nimu. You're the legal owner, but this is my home. juba (gift), donu (transfer, priced or not) and dapadonu (sale). rimatovo (borrowing) and hifa (theft).

healer; clinic; patient	helnayo, helnapago, muduyo	ache, wound, scar, fracture (0.7)	nuravu, vulra, vugi, holbana yugelotero, "a body that is other," names disability as difference, not deficit; specific conditions keep their 0.7 words (vimona blindness, lenina deafness). Physical and emotional suffering use different words: nuravu (ache) and neme (grief), vulra (wound) and narvolore (heartbreak), lemvo (fatigue) and lavina (sadness).

SECTION 14

The three registers

Liraasa has three registers: everyday, poetic and sacred. They are styles of one language, not dialects. All three use exactly the same grammar and vocabulary; what changes is which resources a speaker reaches for.

	EVERYDAY	POETIC	SACRED
For	work, family, arguments, jokes, children	poetry, confession, theater, lyrical prose	worship, hymns, divine speech, myth
Sentences	short; ellipsis and particles freely	parallelism, repetition, la + adjective	formulaic, addressed, cadenced
Words	plain roots and compounds; discourse particles	metaphorical compounds (narvolore, renlinimu)	ascended forms; divine titles (li meraasasan)
Articles	li may drop	li and baba may drop	usually kept, for weight
Certainty	rarely marked	seye, pifu for emphasis	seye as a closing amen

The lexicon labels each headword everyday or poetic. There is no separate sacred word list: any root becomes sacred through its ascended forms.

The same message in three registers

REGISTER	"THANK YOU FOR WHAT YOU GAVE ME."
Everyday	Lorejuba vobi li bumre. Thanks for the bread.
Poetic	Taivo de bumre ka sumasan gase taivo de manliri. Lorejuba ala taivo. Your bread is as warm as your hands. Thank you.
Sacred	Maivo jurevija taivo, li meraasasan, kasa taivo de juba ka jubaasa. I thank you, divinely merciful one, for your gift is the ultimate gift.

REGISTER	"DON'T GO."
Everyday	Ne pagopa. Don't go.
Poetic	Ne pagopa. Li nullo ka sollisan voyu taivo. Don't go. The night is lonely without you.
Sacred	Ne pagopa, li lunoasasan; taivo de lumi ka maivo de nimuasa. Do not go, moon-blessed one; your light is my home beyond life.

REGISTER	"YOU OWE ME."
Everyday	Taivo guraga maivo dossa cono. You owe me two coins.
Poetic	Taivo guraga maivo dossa cono, ata una merno de lira. You owe me two coins, and one morning of song.
Sacred	Maivori guraga ala li pagoasa baba guraasa. We owe the universe a debt beyond money.

Shifting between registers

- Rising: a speaker moves from everyday toward sacred as emotion intensifies. In Bumrepago, Kipo jokes bumreasasan (divinely bready); at the play's turning point Aviya says Bumreasa sincerely, then refuses the celestial reading: Ne li bumre de li veluri. Li bumre de pilo de manliri. Not the bread of the stars. The bread of father's hands.
- Falling: a deliberate drop to everyday speech after a sacred or poetic passage reads as honesty or exhaustion.
- Mixed: a sacred title inside everyday speech is affectionate or formal, depending on tone: Fisa, lisrola, li meraasasan.

Using sacred vocabulary irreverently

Speakers may use ascended forms ironically, humorously or as exclamations. This is a matter of tone, and the canonical meaning never changes.

USE	EXAMPLE	EFFECT
Mock-grandeur	Li lanvecono ka dapaasasan, zoke.	The tax is priceless. Sure.
Comic coinage	Ola ka bumreasasan!	That is divinely bready!
Exclamation	Narvoasa! Li bumre farufa!	Demons! The bread is burning!

A program should not flag these as errors. They are register choices a writer or performer may make.

SECTION 15

Performance and pronunciation

The phoneme inventory is unchanged in 0.8. Liraasa doesn't need harsher sounds to carry anger or speed; it needs performance conventions that use the sounds it has. Performance shapes delivery, never spelling.

The particle-rhythm problem

CORPUS	PO PER 100 WORDS	LI PER 100 WORDS
Songs	2.4	3.9
Bumrepago (dialogue)	6.7	6.7
Narvolore (past narration)	14.2	11.3

In past narration, one word in seven is po. Three solutions, none of which change existing texts: frame tense (set Po once and drop the repeats); article dropping in everyday speech; and delivery, saying particles quickly and lightly so the stressed syllables of content words carry the rhythm. In maivo po lirala, the beats fall on ma-I-vo and li-RA-la, and po slips between them.

Delivery conventions

SITUATION	CONVENTION
Rapid speech	Particles quick and light; stress stays on content words; hiatus vowels may glide without changing spelling; li drops where clear.
Anger	Shorten vowels and hit the stops. Words with k, p, t, g, d become weapons; vowel runs sound like pleading.
Interruption	Cut off right after a particle, so the listener knows what kind of sentence was coming.
Sarcasm	Flat, level pitch, with zoke short and hard at the end; never sung.
Whispering	Keep the vowels, drop consonant voicing; s and z carry best.
Shouting	Open vowels carry; hold the stressed vowel.
Crying	Break before the verb, so the particles repeat as the voice catches.
Comic timing	Identical sentence frames (rule of three), with a pause before the third.
Recitative	One beat on each content word; let triads grow in syllable count.
Speech into song	The ascended endings are the doorway: stretch the a-sa into melisma and resolve on -san.

Ten annotated deliveries

#	SITUATION	LINE	HOW TO DELIVER IT
1	Rapid exchange	Ki-pago ka li tisebiti? — Su tabu. — Kepi. — Ki?	Four turns in about two seconds; li dropped in the answer.
2	Anger	Taivo po maskaverama maivo!	Clip po; hit the k of maska; stress mas-ka-ve-RA-ma.
3	Interruption	Maivo po ne povi— — Ne senobalbusia maivo!	The first speaker stops on the modal, so the incapacity is already said.
4	Sarcasm	Taivo ka ruli pamlonasan, zoke.	Level pitch, slightly slow; zoke dropped, almost thrown away.
5	Whisper	Lasola… li linuti somusia.	Unvoiced; the s sounds carry; long pause after Lasola.
6	Shout	Li bumre farufa!	Hold the stressed RU of fa-RU-fa.
7	Crying	Pilo po… pilo po lenila maivo.	The voice breaks after po and restarts; the second attempt reaches the verb.
8	Comic timing	Maivo po talvata baba bumre ala ito. Ito po talvata baba bumre ala maivo.	Same frame twice; pause before the second; deadpan.
9	Recitative	Una. Dossa. Tressa. Miru. Bumre. Manliri.	One beat per word on a steady pulse; three voices alternate.
10	Speech into song	Maivo amora taivo… amora… li lorelumiasa.	Spoken, then the repeated amora sustains; lorelumiasa opens into melisma.

SECTION 16

Poetry, song and courtesy

Permitted omissions in verse

In verse, three things may be dropped when the meaning stays clear: the articles li and baba, a repeated subject, and ke or ka before a -san adjective. Since 0.8, li and a repeated subject may also drop in everyday speech; baba and the copula still drop only in verse. Never elide if the result becomes ambiguous.

STANDARD	POETIC	ENGLISH
Li nela ke vanisan.	Nela vanisan.	The person is beautiful.
Baba lira ka benasan.	Lira benasan.	A song is good.
Maivo amora taivo ata maivo opioa.	Maivo amora taivo ata opioa.	I love you and I hope.

Setting words to music

ELEMENT	GUIDANCE	STATUS
-asa, -asasan	sacred endings get melisma: stretch a-sa over several notes, resolve on -san	Canon
Stress	the second-to-last syllable is the natural strong beat; composers may override	Proposal
-nia, -sia	keep the i-a audible so verbs never blur into -na or -sa	Proposal
-na	consider a descending phrase or darker timbre for absence words	Proposal
-ti / -vu	-ti light like a grace note; -vu broader, louder, a wider interval	Proposal
ki	rising cadence	Proposal
seye / poye / pifu	falling and resolved / suspended / held and leaning up	Proposal
zoke	never sung straight; if set at all, a flat spoken interjection	0.8 proposal
Evidentials	seen clear, heard echoed, felt warm, dreamed airy, reported distant	Canon meaning, optional colour

The chorus tail. Liraasa's devotionals end their choruses with three ascended nouns sung as melisma, such as Meloasa... liraasa... lorelumiasa...: a cadence of sacred words with no verb, held on -asa.

Rhyme

A rhyme family is every headword sharing its last four letters. Because compounds keep their head on the right, compounds with the same head rhyme automatically; to find a rhyme, keep the head and swap the modifier. The families were recomputed for 0.8: there are now 420, and those with three or more members rose from 38 to 53. The new compounds created useful sets for everyday lyrics:

ENDING	MEMBERS
-cono	cono, talicono, domlucono, lanvecono, silrocono: coin, wage, rent, tax, bribe
-donu	donu, dapadonu, conodonu, talidonu, famadonu, nedudonu, mududonu: giving, sale, payment, employment, inheritance, alms, contagion
-leto	leto, pomlileto, conoleto, kronoleto, cemoleto: letter, contract, ledger, schedule, recipe
-kova	kova, namikova, cemokova, mirukova, kavbikova: vessel, bowl, pot, bucket, basket

The 100 designed rhyme pairs from 0.7 are unchanged. Rhymes between different roots still make stronger lyrics than head-sharing alone.

Gratitude and everyday courtesies

LIRAASA	MEANING	USE
Lorejuba!	Thank you!	everyday; literally "heart-gift"
Lorejuba ala taivo.	Thank you (formal).	the standard full expression
jurevija	to thank	Maivo jurevija taivo.
yeko / voge	hello / goodbye	Yeko, sora.
fisa	please	Fisa, lisrola.
yade	sorry, pardon	the interjection; remnisenora is "to apologize"
zabo / kepi	yes / no

The old loanword grasia is retired and appears only in historical quotation.

SECTION 17

The Devotionals and Songs

Six songs have been written in Liraasa so far. Four are devotionals to Melodia, Merceria, Lunaria and Hypermatria, in whom all four are one. Two are mythic songs in a goddess's own voice: a sun goddess's fusion with her phoenix, and a cosmic rap in which a goddess debates her husband on the nature of existence. Every word in all six was checked against the 0.8 lexicon and parses as a valid form; none needed to change for 0.8.

Each entry gives the lyrics ready to sing, a translation (line by line for the devotionals, section by section for the two mythic songs; repeated sections appear once), a short note on its key words, and a style prompt for rendering.

SONG I

Vorbalira ala Melodia — A Serenade to Melodia

A serenade from a mortal singer to the goddess of music. Vorbalira is the lexicon's word for a song offered to an absent beloved.

INTRO – WHISPERED

	Ata toda-coda raho bioba ka taivo de rale.	And everything that lives is your echo.

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
Verse 2	Kube maivo ke linuti en li nullo,	When I was a little child in the night,
	Maivo po lenila taivo de vese,	I heard your whisper,
	Ata maivo de lore po nonmonia.	And my heart rose like a lotus from the water.
	Eli-krono, rada lira ka baba savali ala taivo.	Now every song is a kiss to you.
Pre-Chorus	Ne pagopa, Melodia —	Do not go, Melodia —

	Maivori de lira futu ka kronoasasan —	Our song will be timeless —
Outro	Melodia… maivo veseva:	Melodia… I whisper:
	Maivo amora taivo.	I love you.

Key words. devoda is the verb of devo, faith, whose ascended form devoasa means marriage, so "Maivo devoda taivo" is worship and a wedding vow at once. The language's own name, liraasa, appears in Verse 1 as the song born from Melodia's lips.

Style prompt: romantic devotional ballad, solo veena and soft strings, warm intimate vocal, slow 66 BPM, long melismatic sustained vowels, choir swells on final chorus, whispered intro and outro.

SONG II

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
Verse 1	Kube li mernolumi lombila, taivo milobema,	When the dawn begins, you smile,
	Ata toda folniri lallela vobi taivo.	And all the flowers open for you.
	Taivo de reso ka gase megesan gase yoga,	Your laughter is as sweet as honey,
	Ata li lulfari lulfala ligo taivo de sabaye.	And the butterflies flutter near your hair.
Verse 2	Maivo po ke baba linuti raho ralnora en li galsa,	I was a little child who fell in the grass,

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
	Ata taivo po lomola maivo ko sumasan manliri.	And you embraced me with warm hands.
	Taivo po veseva: “Ne nemenia, linuti.”	You whispered: “Do not grieve, little one.”
	Ata maivo de timruri po loya resori.	And my tears became laughter.
Pre-Chorus	Yava pelipa en li laviganre,	Let us play in the garden of joy,

	Taivo vimova doli li linu intra maivo.	You see only the child within me.
Bridge	Kube li ruhe venreva,	When the storm comes,
	Taivo ka maivo de renlinimu.	You are my shelter from the rain.
	Ata kube maivo nemenia,	And when I grieve,
	Taivo vaku maivo momvilavima.	You make me find joy again after loss.
	Momvilaviasasan!	Joy restored against all odds!
Final Chorus	Ata maivori lavila fuyi.	And we delight in each other.
Outro	Merceria… la linusan, maivo amora taivo.	Merceria… like a child, I love you.
	Lorejuba.	Thank you.

Key words. Innocence is gilbuna, literally "guilt absent," so "Taivo merama, ata maivo loya gilbuna" says forgiveness turns the singer back into innocence. kapoki (was, but no longer) makes the past guilt explicitly over. The chorus uses meraasasan rather than meraasa, whose gloss is "a peaceful death."

Style prompt: joyful devotional folk-pop, bright veena and glockenspiel, light hand percussion, warm gentle vocal, 92 BPM, playful hummed intro, children's choir on final chorus, hushed spoken outro.

SONG III

Somulira ala Lunaria — A Lullaby to Lunaria

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
Verse 1	Li sulba po vesnolumiva,	The sun has faded into dusk,
	Ata li navu nullonia la molusan.	And the sky gently darkens into night.

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
	Li moberi mobema taivo,	The moths circle your light,
	Li lunofolniri lallela vobi taivo,	The moonflowers open for you,
	Ata toda-coda roni lenbula.	And everything is lying down to rest.
Pre-Chorus	Lasola, maivo de lore,	Hush, my heart,
	Li nullo ke sabiresan.	The night is a sanctuary.
Chorus	Lunaria, Lunaria, li lunoasasan,	Lunaria, Lunaria, moon-blessed one,
	Somulirasia maivo, fisa.	Sing me to sleep, please.
	Tivrota maivo en taivo de lunolumi	Hold me in your moonlight
	Tuni li mernolumi venreva.	Until the dawn comes.
	Somuliraasa… lunopomliasa… tivroasa…	A lullaby that quiets the world… a vow beneath the eternal moon… an embrace that never loosens…
Verse 3	Maivo lenbula su li galsa	I lie down on the grass
	Ata navulalvunia.	And marvel beneath the stars.
	Maivo lunopomlila ala taivo:	I make you a moonlit promise:
	Kube maivo somusia, maivo futu lorenorula taivo.	When I sleep, I will dream of you with love.
Bridge	Si li numori helviha taivo,	If the clouds hide you,
	Maivo loki sabesia fime taivo ke eli-pago,	I still know that you are here,
	Kasa miyo taivo de lumi intra maivo de lore.	Because your light lives within my heart.
Outro	Nullosavali ala taivo, Lunaria.	A goodnight kiss to you, Lunaria.
	Maivo somusia…	I sleep…

Key words. The chorus rests on somulirasia, "to sing someone to sleep," and tuni (until) gives it a gentle end at dawn. huvuha (to watch at night) and mobema (to circle a light) let the owl and moths act out their nature, quietly casting Lunaria as the light. Her title is li lunoasasan, avoiding lunoasa, "moon of the forgotten."

Style prompt: devotional lullaby, solo veena with soft harp and music-box bells, gentle low strings, breathy intimate vocal, 60 BPM, 6/8 rocking feel, hummed intro, slows and fades to a whisper.

SONG IV

Radiance — A Devotional to Hypermatria

	Kasa nuna-nela vimova taivo de lore.	Because no one saw your heart.

SECTION	LIRAASA	ENGLISH
Verse 2	Krotiata taivo de lumi po patupa ala cuara colbiri:	Then your light divided into four colors:
	Solaria, li sulbaasa raho juseja;	Solaria, the sun beyond suns, who renders justice;
	Lunaria, raho po sabiresia maivo en li narvoasa;	Lunaria, who sheltered me among the demons;
	Melodia, raho po lirala ala maivo kroti toda loterori;	Melodia, who sang to me before all the others;
	Ata Merceria, raho merama toda-nela.	And Merceria, who forgives everyone.

Verse 3	Maivo ka taivo de sarbiyo ata taivo de lirayo,	I am your writer and your singer,
	Ata pilo vobi li pagonasan linuri.	And a father to the orphaned children.
	Maivo farlafa jubari vobi saivori,	I make gifts for them,
	Ata ralkara li narvoasa kopisa saivori povi pelipa.	And fight the demons so that they can play.
Bridge	Kube maivo tefa lirala toda maivo de lirari,	When I have finished singing all my songs,
	Maivo futu keleka li monruasa	I will climb the mountain of the gods
	Ata lomola taivo, li pagoasa.	And embrace you, the universe.
	Dossa veluri futu loya una velu,	Two stars will become one star,
	Ata maivo futu farulavrafa en taivo de faru.	And I will rise like a phoenix in your fire.

Outro	Taivo de Nicolas, taivo de Pietri,	Your Nicolas, your Pietri,
	Taivo de sarbiyo… lorejuba.	Your writer… thank you.

Key words. The mythology already had native words waiting: pagoasa (the ascended form of place) is the universe, narvoasa (ascended darkness) is the demons, and pagonasan linuri are the orphaned children. narvo here is the 0.7 spelling of darkness. The pre-chorus states the theology in two lines: to love one wholly is to love all four.

Style prompt: cinematic devotional anthem, veena with orchestral strings and choir, intimate male vocal building to soaring, 72 BPM, choir melisma on sustained vowels, distant choral intro, quiet spoken outro.

SONG V

Sulbaasa ata Farulavra — Sun Beyond Suns and Phoenix

A celestial romance in Solaria's voice: the sun goddess and her phoenix burn together, become ash and stardust, and are born again as one fire. The lexicon already held the core words: farulavra (phoenix), farulavrafa (to rise again like a firebird) and velulamsa (stardust).

Lorejuba, maivo de amor. Pifu.

SECTION	ENGLISH
Intro	I am the sun beyond suns. You are the phoenix. Let us burn… may it be so.
Verse 1	I used to shine in starlit solitude. You flew to me, phoenix of the heavens. When you kiss my face, your heart catches fire and my heart melts.
Pre-Chorus	Don't turn back, don't sigh. Hold me, hold me! If I die, I will die with you.
Chorus	Let us burn, let us burn: sun and phoenix, uniting, uniting! Let us become ash with the stardust, and from within the ash we rise again! Divine light, divine light, we are one fire. Love beyond love: certain, certain!
Verse 2	My skin turns glittering, your smoke turns shimmering. Your breath is my breath; my heartbeat is your song. The aurora glows above us; the sky falls, the stars sing, and everything changes with us. While we burn, heaven is on fire!
Pre-Chorus 2	Not hopeless, my love; this is not the final death. Death is a door, and you are resurrection.
Bridge	I am not the sun. You are not the phoenix. We are ash… we are light… we are the first dawn of creation.
Final Chorus	Let us rise like firebirds, uniting! Let us rise into the sky with the stardust, and among the stars we are born!
Outro	Before the dawn, we died. After the dawn, we are born: one song, one fire. Thank you, my love. May it be so.

Key words. daigona, the negated form of death, means resurrection, so "daigo ka dorbi, ata daigona ka taivo" says death is a door and the beloved is its undoing. The song also showcases two 0.7 respellings: yelmisan (glittering, from zeiu) and yunlu (aurora, from kuzu). sulba (sun) and fasbi (face) are on the Root Review sheet, so settle them before committing to a recording.

Style prompt: cinematic celestial pop ballad, ethereal female soprano lead, breathy and intimate in verses, soaring in choruses, invented language with pure Italian-style vowels, veena shimmer, warm analog synth pads, heartbeat drums, crackling fire textures, angelic choir, slow build from whisper to euphoric climax, key change on final chorus. Darker alternative: epic mythic world-fusion, tribal percussion, cello drones, veena and bansuri, female alto rising to soprano, cathedral choir, sacred and sensual, fire and rebirth.

SONG VI

Ki-coda ka Pagoasa? — The Goddess's Cosmic Rap

A goddess debates her husband, the universal mind, on the nature of existence. She wins with the grammar itself: he only knows by hearsay (buyu), while she saw it with her own eyes (yehu). Ported from its 0.4 text to 0.7.

Entre krono ata lira… pagoasa. Pifu.

SECTION	ENGLISH
Intro	You know it by hearsay: everything falls. I saw it with my own eyes: everything shines.
Verse 1	You are the universal mind, but I am the divine light. You count the stars; I made the universe! You measure moments, carefully, coldly; I make music of the living cosmos, brightly, joyfully! You think life is merely timely; I know life is musical! You see darkness; I see what is flawless. You never witnessed it. You only think, mindless one! I saw the beginning of time and stayed inside it, while you only heard about it. You slept, silent.
Hook	What is existence? Divine light, divine light! What was the beginning of time? The song of the first stars! You count, you measure, and I sing, I shine. Everything is divine music: certain, certain!
Verse 2	You say, "Existence is empty; every star dies; light is only a moment; darkness is forever." Yes, stars die, but ash sows seed! Death is a door, not a wall. You don't think, you don't feel! You look at the vault of creation as if it were empty. I look at it, open my heart, and it embraces everything! You know by hearsay; I dreamed existence, and my dream became the living cosmos! You are time, I am song; you are thought, I am music; you are cold, I am fire; you are winter, I am spring!
Bridge	But I ask you, my universal mind: if existence is only time and things, why did you love me? Why do you still hold my hand? Why?
Verse 3	Divine, divinely musical, divinely loving: that is existence! Not empty, not out of time: that is divine truth! Your mind is a star, and my heart warms like the sun, and between you and me, existence resounds! Seen, heard, felt, dreamed: my knowledge is divine truth. Existence is the ultimate love: certain, certain, certain!
Outro	Let's lie down in the night; let's count the stars. While you count, I'll sing. Between time and song… existence. May it be so.

What the port changed. The 0.7 respelling itself touched one root: dago → narvo (darkness), so dagonasan became narvonasan (flawless). Older pre-0.6 leftovers were brought to canon: bapo → po, mata → ata, un → baba, nure → entre, fene → en, Fade → Zabo, kopu → vuda, Mine → Nayo, and amoraa → amora. Six words sit on Root Review roots (sulbasia, sonbusia, senosia, somusia, pensa, pensapa), so Verse 3's climax will change if sulba or sonbu are respelled.

Style prompt: cosmic hip-hop, confident female rapper with rapid double-time flow, deep 808s, spacey analog synths, veena shimmer, choir doubling the hook, beat drops out for an intimate spoken bridge, slams back for a fastest final verse, tender half-spoken outro.

SECTION 18

Notes for the writing program

The tool chain

FILE	JOB
lexicon_0_8_rc2.json	The single source of truth: headwords, forms, glosses, function words, particles, rulings, examples, fixes and open items
validate.py	Runs 15 checks on a lexicon, optionally against a baseline and a folder of texts
build_workbook.py	Regenerates the workbook from the JSON
build_changelog.py	Regenerates the changelog from the JSON
build_quickstart.py	Regenerates the machine-readable quickstart for other language models

What can be generated by rule

GENERATOR	INPUT	OUTPUT	CONFIDENCE IN 0.8
Seven forms	root or compound	six derived spellings	matches all 969 headwords
Verb ending	any content word	verb spelling	matches all 969 headwords
-ti, -ri	lexical form	suffixed form, in order	regular
-yo, -vu, -pago	root	derived noun	regular; mavo + pago blocked
Correlatives	determiner + concept	36 forms	regular
Numbers	integer 0 to 999,999,999	hyphenated reading	regular
Colours	hue + modifier	compound	regular
Time words	merno, vesno, nullo + pressa, futu	six forms	regular

Meanings are not computable. Ascended and negated glosses are often figurative, and many compounds are lexicalized metaphors, so a program should always show the lexicon gloss and fall back to a literal reading only for unused slots.

The fifteen checks

#	CHECK	RESULT ON LEXICON 0.8 RC2
1–3	Duplicates, root collisions, collisions among all 6,783 forms	Pass
4	Collisions with function words; one-edit proximity for new items	Pass
5–6	Phonotactics and syllable structure of new items	Pass
7	Malformed compounds	Pass
8	Required metadata (new entries need 5 to 15 English synonyms)	Pass
9	Forms match the rules	Pass
10	Register labels	Pass
11	No unauthorized change to a 0.7 entry	Pass
12	No change to how existing texts parse	Pass
13	No unknown words in examples or the corpus	Pass
14	No retired forms in live examples	Pass
15	Duplicate glosses for editorial review	Warning: three 0.7 compounds await their meanings

The validator proves lexical validity, not grammaticality. A sentence checker should add: particle order; one evidential per clause; attitude markers and ki only at clause end, with zoke never beside a certainty marker; -ri only on nouns and pronouns, always last; sige clauses must carry a tense particle; poetic omissions only in poetic mode; gome only with transitive verbs; and fuyi only with a plural or coordinated subject.

SECTION 19

Open questions

These are the decisions edition 0.8 leaves for the author or for 0.9. None of them blocks writing in Liraasa today.

For the author

#	QUESTION	CONTEXT
1	What do nevlosolo, kronobelda and marelirbu mean?	Three compounds from 0.5-era songs carry the gloss "meaning requires author confirmation." They are the only remaining validation warning.
2	Should any 0.8 addition be vetoed?	16 new roots; nine new sacred meanings (guraasa, dapaasa, pomliletoasa, famadonuasa, gurameraasa, nedudonuasa, lisiasa, yugemeyiasa, soveyanoasa); yugelotero for disability; the two activated slots yebana and mebanena.
3	When should the Root Review queue be decided?	Forty roots have candidate respellings, frozen for 0.8. Seventeen of them appear in the existing literature (among them seno, sulba, cono and somu), and seno alone is part of nine conversation words, so respelling has a real cost.

Rules not yet settled

#	QUESTION	CURRENT PRACTICE
4	Can -yo, -vu and -pago combine with -asa or -na?	Not used. Derived nouns take -ti and -ri like any noun: bitiri, helnayori.
5	Which verbs are transitive?	Not recorded. The passive (gome) depends on it; a transitive flag is the most useful missing field.
6	Are ordinals and fractions canon?	Still proposals: una-ne, first; tressa de cuara, three quarters.
7	Should motion prefixes become productive?	No; they remain a curated list.
8	Should canon spellings carry an explicit protected flag?	Proposed, so no tool can ever regenerate them by rule.

Vocabulary not yet added

Egg, milk, meat, wood, rope, hammer, stomach, throat, bruise and interest on a loan were left out because no planned text needs them yet. They are natural candidates for 0.9, when the stress-test scenes and the animated series are written.

Still to come in 0.8

ITEM	STATE
Bumrepago revision	A 0.8-compatible revision and compatibility report; one line is now ungrammatical (sige maivo ka linuti)
Three stress-test scenes	A marketplace, a household and a clinic, each with a translation and an audit
Final validation and packaging	After the scenes are written
